I really began missing invripper, with around 240 mules, things can get lost easily... searching through 20+ accounts is a PITA. InvRipper was always one of my favorite programs and is by far the best inventory management scripts I've seen. I was really glad I was able to take tRaiz and my old work and bring it back to life... Still it has room for improvement, but this is enough to get started. Best way to do this is to create a folder named InvRipper in D2BS folder (with YAMB and scripts-ntbot), then right click on the folder and do an SVN check out here: http://subversion.assembla.com/svn/d2bs ... /InvRipper

After, svn check out open OOG.exe and in the characters config in OOG click the scripts menu and select InvRipper (instead of YAMB or scripts-ntbot).
click save, then close out config and click start.
OOG will automatically start DIO (Darien's Inventory OOG) and cycle through all of the accounts configured in settings/Darien/DIO.ini you can config minor stuff in settings/Darien/invripper.ini as well.

if you do don't know how to do that then you can download.
I've included everything in a single .rar download so that I can preserve the file tree as well and provide all of the necessary jpg files in the same download.

Download Here:
InvRipper with DIO

But one of my favorite things it that, since the output is HTML, you can just upload your files to a web host.. and you can share your invripper stash with the world. Just make sure you're using Internet Explorer.

set up is pretty straight forward, open up the rar archive and read the ReadMe.txt and follow the instructions.

Code: Select all

=================
InvRipper readme
=================

Stand Alone use with svn checkout;

start oog.exe edit character config and change scripts from YAMB or ntbot-scripts to InvRipper save and start.  This is will automatically start DIO (Darien's Inventory OOG) and cycle through all of the accounts configured in settings/Darien/DIO.ini you can config minor stuff in invripper.ini as well.

===================================

For use with YAMB

1. change the name of your starter.dbj to starterNORM.dbj
2. edit your default.dbj to load("tools/invripper.dbj"); OR rename it to defaultNORM.dbj and use the default.dbj included
3. dump the rest of these files in your D2BS/YAMB install folder. (take special note to dump all the pics into the output/invripper/jpg folder)

enjoy 😎

P.S. I'd perfer if BHFiles could host this for me, someone let me know if we can link it there instead.

1800 views and not a single comment?

Neways, I encountered a few problems. This is an amazing item logger, but when viewed in html the objects are aligned in spots where they are not suppose to.

Can you reupload invripper.rar btw?
